Interpretation for Website Visitors

- A real batch report should identify the product, batch, sampling dates and test methods.
- Results should be compared with applicable legal or customer specifications by a qualified laboratory.
- A QR code on the final product may link customers to the verified report issued for that exact batch.
- The values in this document are examples only and must never replace actual laboratory testing.

Report Notes

Important: This document is a design sample created for POSVIQ website presentation. It is not a Certificate of Analysis, not an NABL-accredited report, not an FSSAI approval, and not evidence that any real batch was tested. Replace it with a genuine report from an authorized laboratory before making product-specific quality claims.
